

WORLD INTELLIGENT PLANNING

Improve your company

This is Joel, planning supervisor at Graphicalz. Joel is having a good day. His planning system notified about a job running behind in prepress, so he could react timely and gave the needed support to still be able to get the job in time to the printing press.

Joel knew how the planning system was able to notify him, because 6 months earlier Joel was part of the team that modelled their value chain into World Intelligent Planning. He also worked together with the system integrators that connected their resources and long-running ERP system to the platform.

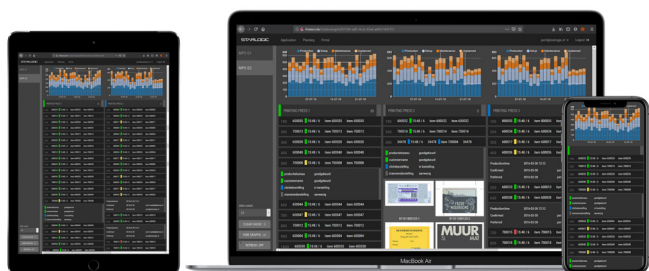

Now Joel and his team finally have a complete scheduling solution. They use the dashboards at their startup meetings. They use the resource view to get details for their current job. And if a job needs to be rescheduled; Joel immediately gets feedback with impact on other orders.

Joel is also happy because his management is happy. Happy with the real-time insight, customers that get delivered on time and continuously improving margins. They can take on the world now, experience more growth and continue to be happy.

Starlogic has been developing software platforms for 15 years. On our platforms we have implemented line-of-business applications, Full ERP-/MIS-systems for production and integration services.

Our philosophy is to have strong technical platforms to tailor to our client's processes.

World Intelligent Planning is our next-generation job-scheduling platform. It is connected to your resources, shows performance real-time and uses data to guide your organization towards an automated planning solution.

WORLD INTELLIGENT PLANNING

Job scheduling to deliver every job ahead of time

World Intelligent Planning is the job scheduling platform on another level. Like a Manufacturing Execution System it keeps track of all movements and statuses in your production and uses these to provide the most efficient scheduling of jobs on your resources.

The system provides every stakeholder in your facility with the necessary interfaces to work through their jobs. And no more next day manual performance reporting: World Intelligent planning delivers job data to the operator and Key Performance Indicators at the same time.

Your company results are directly linked to your production performance. Stay on top of your production with a system that measures and tracks your total process for each job, each shift, each week and month. The savings generated by implementing process automation might just eliminate your need to buy another press...
